FOREWORD

THIS catalog contains our latest designs of Reflexoliers and Chandeliers, all of which are original with us and represent a distinct advance in the art of gas illumination.

Fixtures designated as "Reflexoliers" are "self-lighting." Pull one chain, ALL lamps are lighted; pull the other, ALL are extinguished—the simplest and most easily operated ignition system.

Designs are modern, follow the popular trend toward certain modes of interior decoration, and will achieve beautiful and harmonious effects. Shells and casings are heavy; canopies are deep enough to cover the longest outlets; and special care is exercised in assembling and testing each fixture.

Standard finish: Brushed Brass. We can also supply any special finish to order at an advance of 10 per cent. over net prices.

Extreme measurements are given in all cases; the spread is from tip to tip of the arms; the drop is from top coupling to lowest point exclusive of Reflex lamps and glassware. Nine inches added to measurements given will approximate total drop, including Reflex lamps and glassware.

Many of the designs shown can be made to order in combination form—prices on request.

Dummy Reflex burners make combination fixtures look just right. They are easily wired, electric bulbs fit them perfectly and make the fixture uniform, all burners looking alike and taking the same glassware. We recommend their use.

All fixtures are carried in stock, in standard finish, and shipments will be made promptly.

Terms: To purchasers having satisfactory mercantile rating, net cash 30 days.

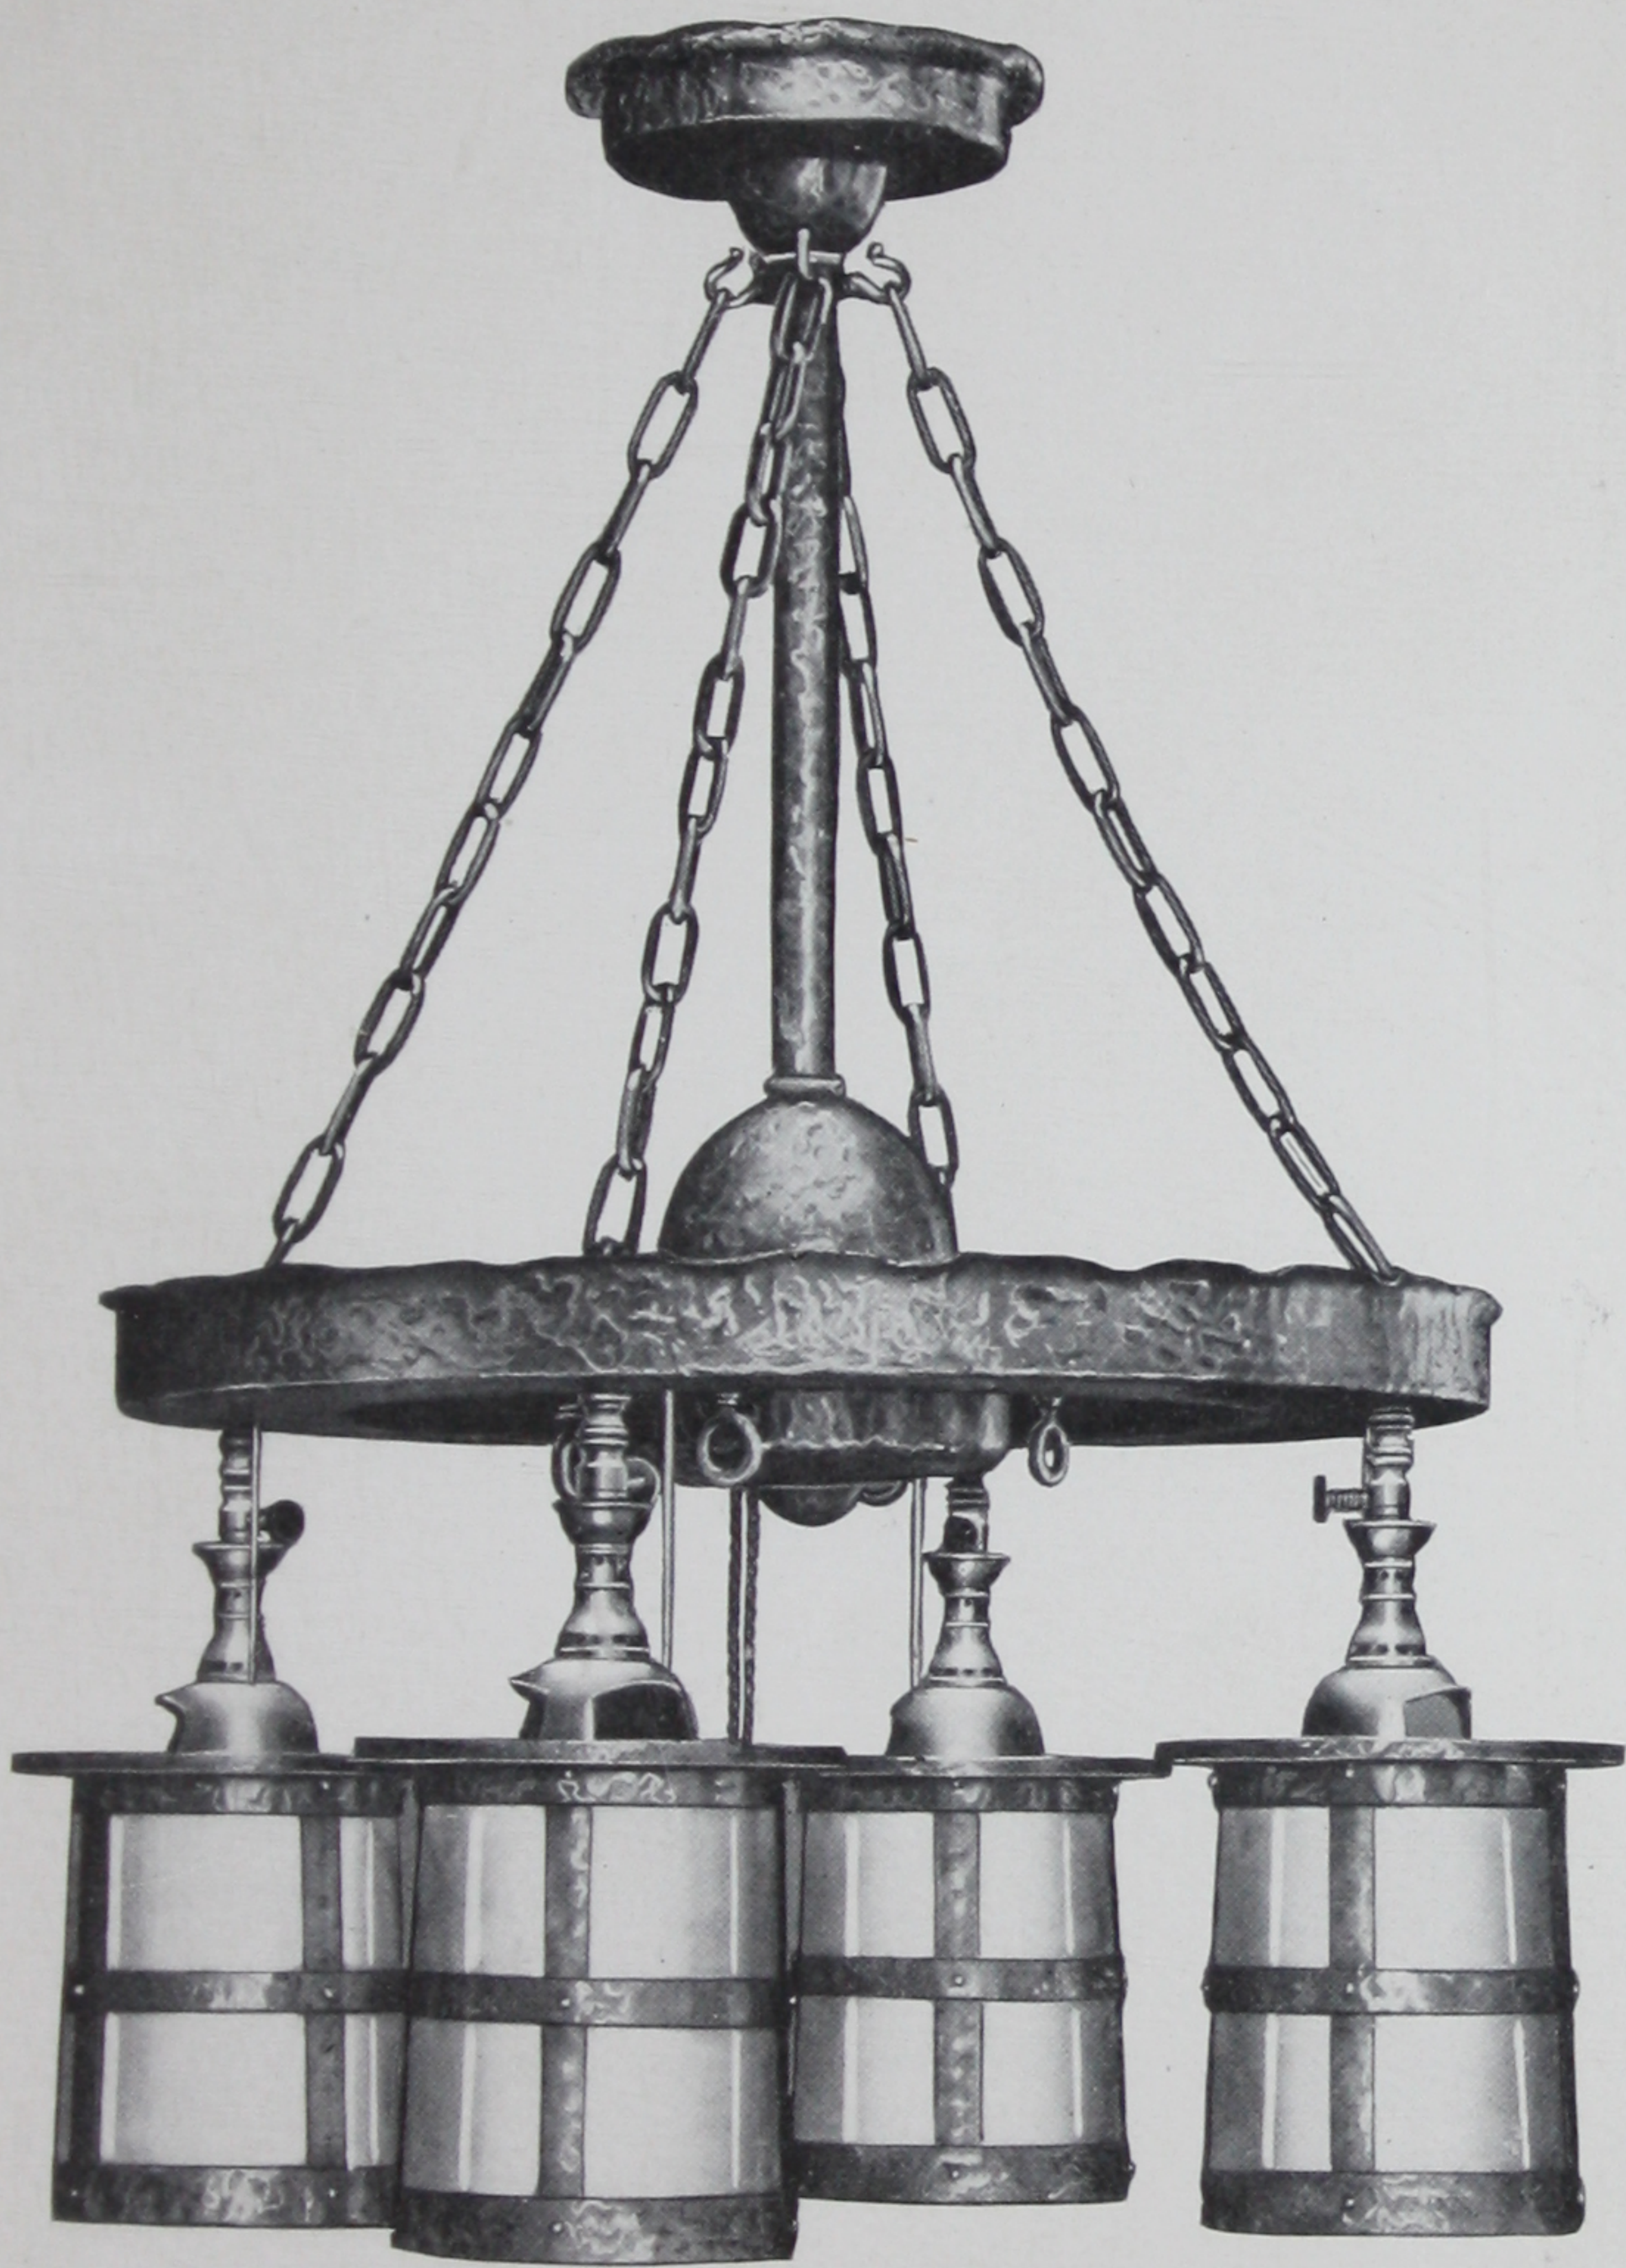

To purchasers not so rated goods will be shipped C. O. D.

All prices not otherwise stated are F. O. B. cars at point of shipment.

Packages will be charged for at manufacturer's schedule. No allowance for breakage.

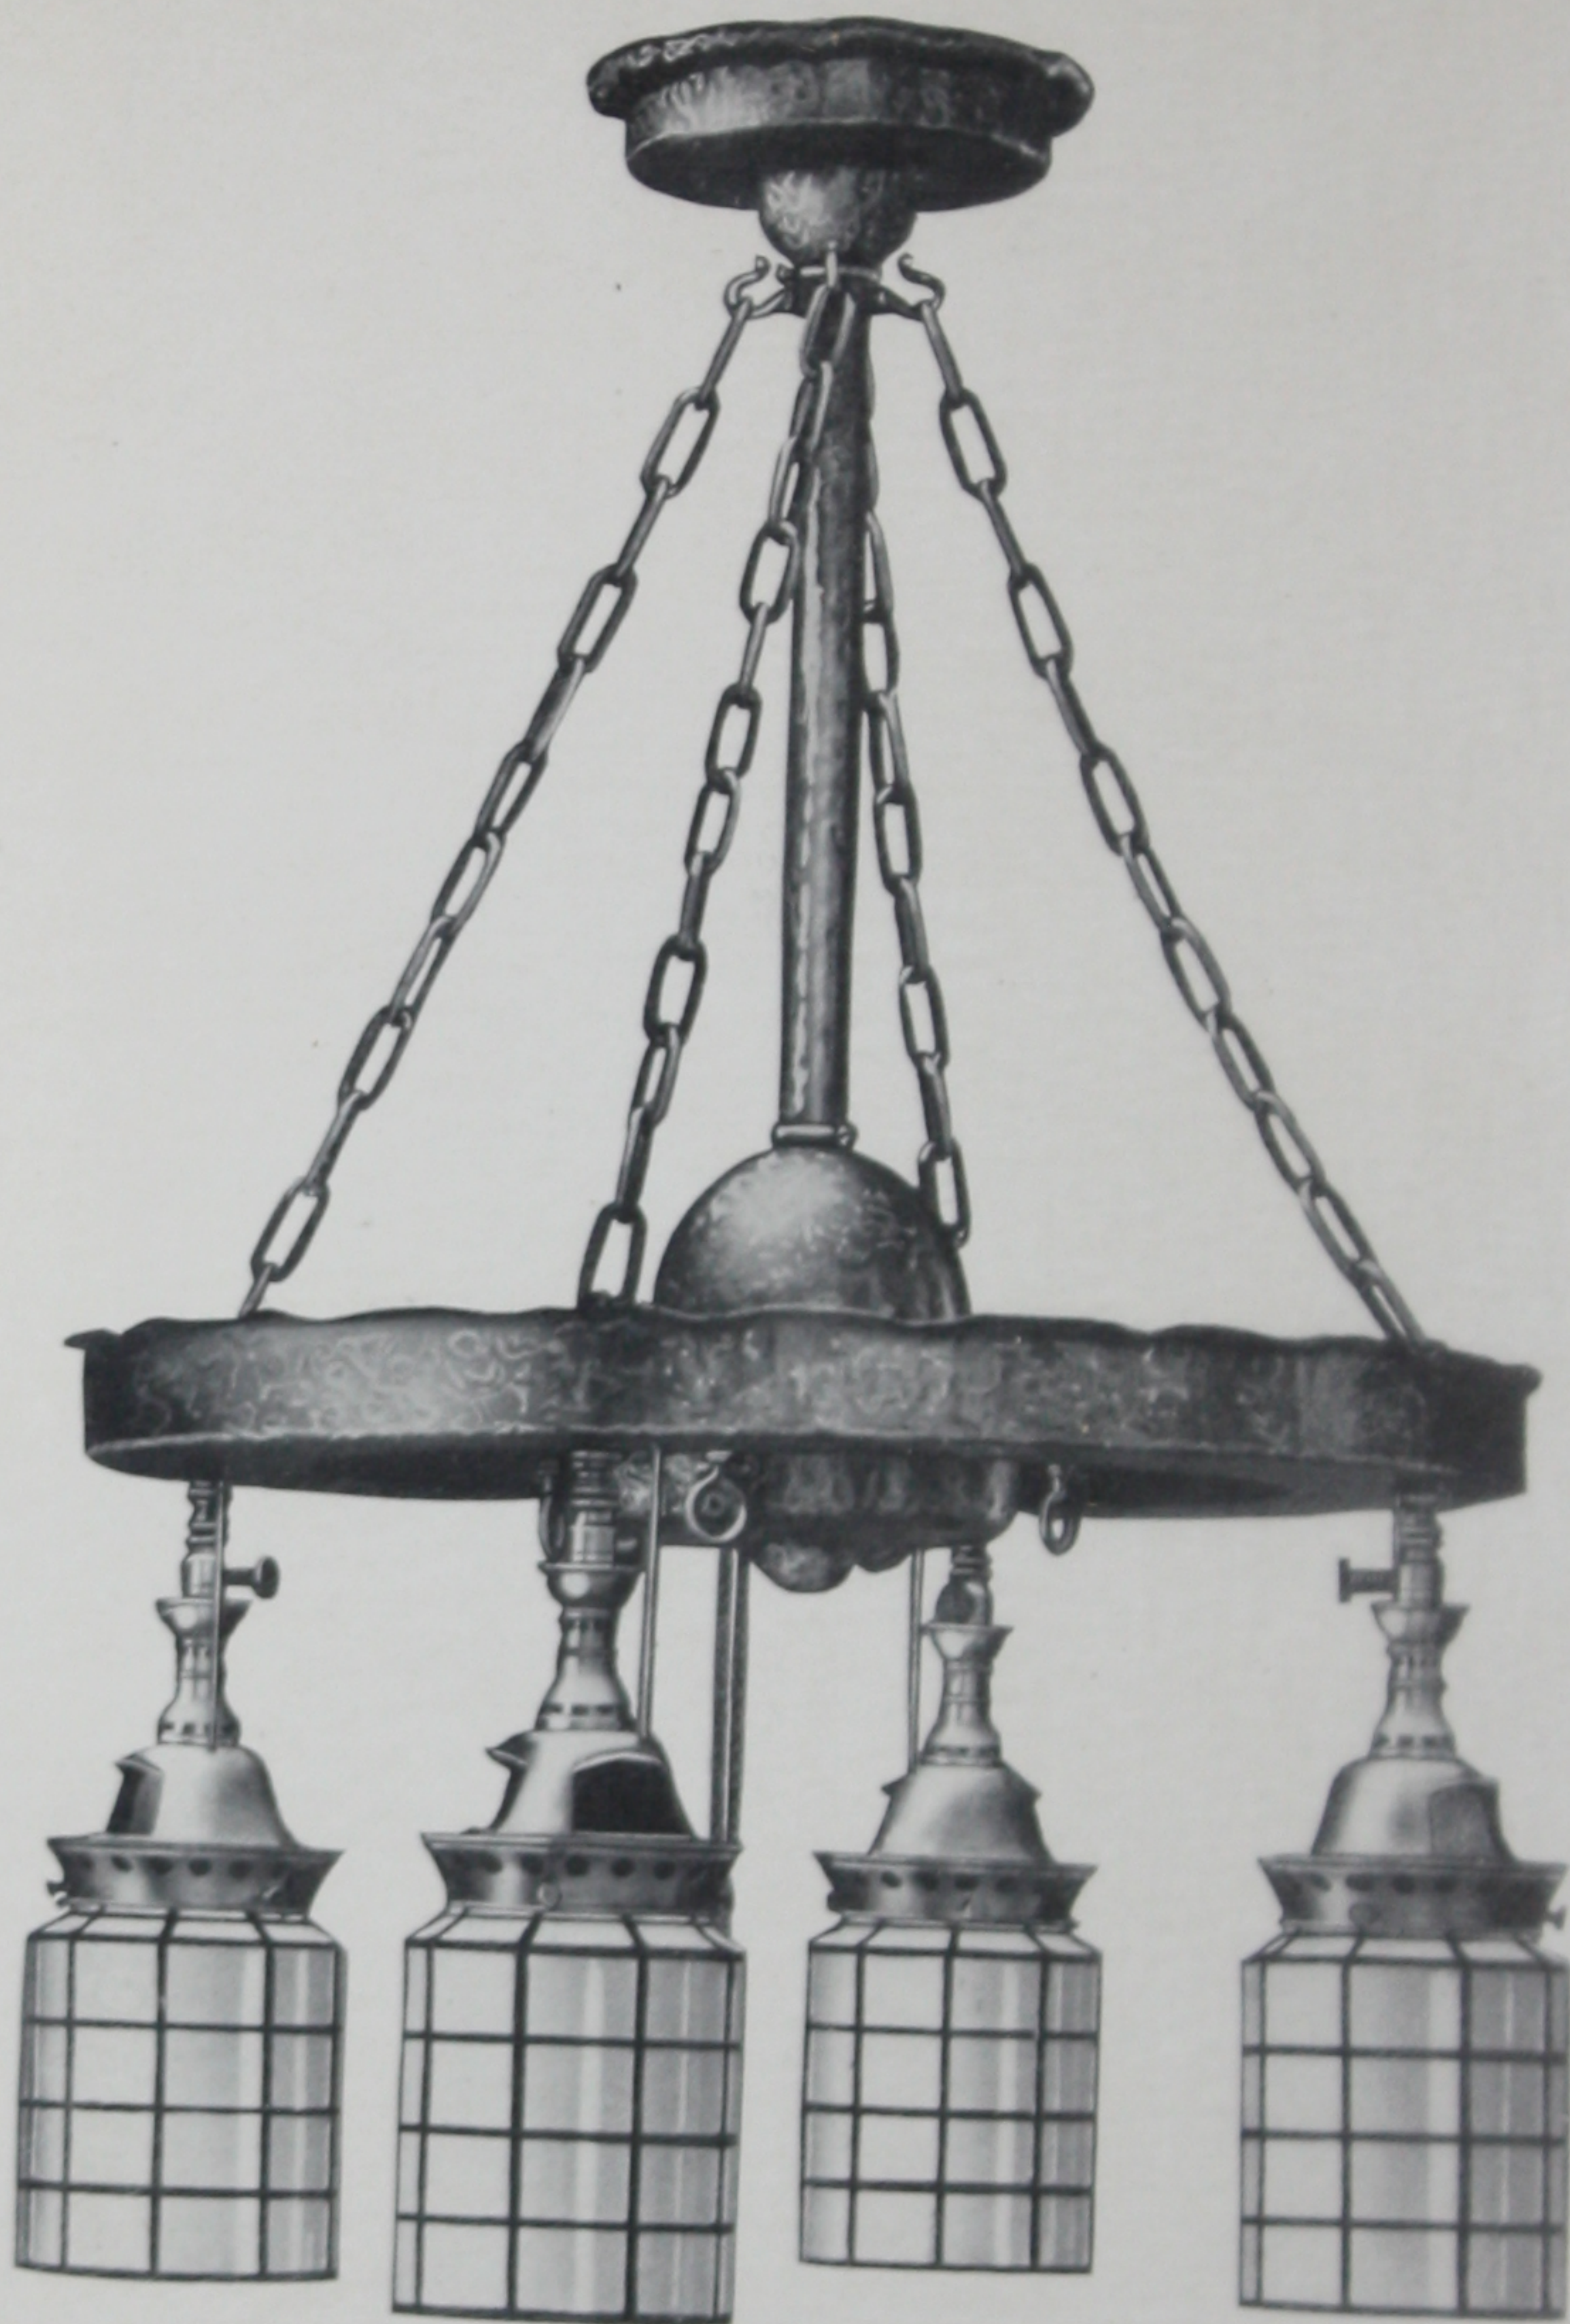

Write for discounts.

Reflexolier

V 1290

Style : Medieval

A VERY massive fixture exhibiting fine hammered brass work in the canopy, band and shell. This finish, copied after the rough hand hammering characteristic of much Medieval metal work, makes this style especially pleasing for use in reception-halls, living-rooms and some dining-rooms. In many stores where Mission architecture is followed this fixture could be introduced without causing any discord.

We illustrate this fixture in two ways :

- 1.—On the front page with hammered antique brass lantern shades, very heavy, made especially to match this fixture.
- 2.—On opposite page with Globe No. 472, crystal, French-roughed, black or red ribs as desired ; an attractive substitute for the lanterns at a much lower price.

Style : Sheffield Shower Type

THE Shower-type fixture, extensively used in decorative illumination, was unsuitable for use with gas until the invention of the Reflex lamp. The style shown opposite is exceedingly handsome and especially adapted to rooms of large size having high ceilings. The canopy and pan show the beautiful fluting characteristic of the Sheffield silverware, and although the fixture is massive, its proportions are excellent, a desirable effect of lightness and grace being preserved which makes it suitable for use either in residences or fine stores.

Shown with Shade No. 3416, ribbed Alba glass, fluted bottom ; an attractive combination with this Reflexolier.

Style : Sheffield Shower Type

ANOTHER example of the popular Shower-type fixture in which the drooping arms give a decidedly novel effect. This design is widely used wherever highly ornamental fixtures are required, and while it is essentially best adapted for use in residences, it will also be entirely suitable in the finest stores.

Shown with Globe No. 0105, an imported crystal etched globe with Art Nouveau decoration in ruby and green, an especially attractive combination with this Reflexolier.

Style: Sheffield Shower Type

THIS fixture is somewhat less elaborate in decoration and has slightly narrower spread than most of the Shower fixtures herein illustrated; it is therefore better adapted to moderate sized rooms. The canopy and pan show the Sheffield fluting, and the graceful proportions of the fixture make it especially suitable for residence illumination and also for fine stores.

Shade No. 01018, iced and matted, green background with classic decoration in darker green and red. An excellent shade for use with this fixture.

SPECIFICATIONS

Stem, $\frac{7}{8}$ inch round	Drop, 18 inches
Arms, $\frac{1}{2}$ inch round	Spread, 20 inches

Style: Sheffield Shower Type

THE characteristic Sheffield fluting is evident in this fixture, with the addition, if desired, of a cast grapevine decoration. As this Reflexolier is of moderate size, graceful and decorative, a wide field will be found for it in both residence and store illumination.

Shown with Globe No. 080, iced and matted; poppy decoration in green. The unconventional style characteristic of the fixture is carried out in decoration of this globe, forming an effective combination which should be preserved when possible.

SPECIFICATIONS

G 0566

Chandelier

G 0566

Style : Sheffield-Colonial

AN elaborately decorated fixture with reeded arms and cast grapevine ornamentation. The style is especially suitable for use in dining-rooms, replacing the conventional dome. Very pleasing effects will be obtained when this Chandelier is used in large, ornate rooms, or it may be used with equal appropriateness in stores. This fixture is a Chandelier, not a Reflexolier.

Shown with Shade No. 9352, crystal, French roughed. The grapevine decoration of the fixture is carried out in this shade, which is therefore well adapted for use with it.

SPECIFICATIONS

Stem, $\frac{7}{8}$ inch round	Drop, 36 inches

Chandelier

G 0567

Style : Sheffield-Colonial

THIS Chandelier is similar to the preceding design but slightly lower in price. The style is very graceful, differing from the conventional type of Chandelier inasmuch as it introduces the Sheffield fluted pan at the bottom. Will be found especially pleasing when used in residences ; in parlors, reception-halls, etc. A Chandelier, not a Reflexolier.

Shown with Shade No. 28, etched and cut in Colonial pattern, forming a very pleasing complement to the fixture.

SPECIFICATIONS

G 0563

Style : Sheffield-Colonial

ANOTHER type of Chandelier exhibiting in the shell and canopy the characteristic Sheffield fluting. The design is exceedingly graceful and attractive, and, while intended primarily for use in residences, will nevertheless appear to advantage in many fine stores or in public buildings where ornamental fixtures are required. It should be noted that this fixture does not possess the self-lighting feature of the Reflexolier.

Shown with Globe No. 087, an imported Opaline ball with clear cut stars. Very effective in residence lighting.

SPECIFICATIONS

G 0564

Style : Sheffield-Colonial

AN especially graceful fixture, in which the Sheffield fluting is evident in the shells and canopies, with the addition of a cast conventional band encircling the center shell. The design is well adapted to interiors where Colonial decoration is dominant and is equally applicable to both stores and residences. A Chandelier, not a Reflexolier.

Shown with Globe No. 0812, imported, crystal etched. In order to preserve the proper harmony of design we recommend equipping this Chandelier with this globe.

V 1285

Style : Sheffield-Colonial

THERE is a recent wide-spread popularity for fixtures of more graceful design than the pure Mission style, but which may be used in Mission interiors without creating a discordant effect. The Reflexolier shown opposite is especially adapted for such locations ; the fluted shells and canopy lend grace to the straight arms and square Mission body and still preserve the rugged simplicity. A very effective style for residence illumination.

Shown with Shade No. 089, crystal etched. The fluted edges and cone shape of this shade are especially harmonious with the canopy and shell of the Reflexolier.

V 464

Reflexolier

V 464

Style : Sheffield-Colonial

A MEDIUM-SIZED fixture of simple design and possessing unusually graceful lines. The canopy and shell show the Sheffield fluting, which is now widely popular. The size and general character of this Reflexolier adapt it to all moderately large rooms where a simple scheme of decoration has been followed. It can also be used to advantage in many fine stores, especially where ceilings are low.

Shown with Shade No. 3415, Alba glass. May be appropriately used in all locations where this Reflexolier is suitable.

Style : Dutch Colonial

DUTCH Colonial is distinguished from Sheffield-Colonial and pure Colonial design by its greater severity, ruder patterns and general effect of weight and solidity. It is excellently adapted for use in many residences and is widely used in more formal architecture.

The style shown opposite, because of its massive appearance and severe simplicity of design, is especially well adapted for use in large stores, halls, railroad stations and all other locations requiring fixtures which give an impression of size and weight and conform to the severe modes of architecture commonly followed.

Shown with Globe No. 441, Verre Krasna Opaline Ball, 6 inches in diameter. The diffusive properties of Verre Krasna Opaline glass are remarkable. Such globes look like solid balls of light. The glass is also highly resistant to heat and will not discolor or break.

Style : Colonial

THE pure Colonial architecture is essentially an outgrowth of the old Classic type, and displays many of the Classic motifs of decoration as well as a general resemblance to its lines. No period is today more widely copied than the Colonial—and justly so, since it is based upon beautiful and practical qualities.

A massive, finely balanced fixture, exemplifying the classic laurel wreath and egg-and-dart decoration. The addition of the heavy brass chains assists in creating an effect of size and weight, making this design appropriate for use in large stores, halls or the more formal rooms of private residences.

Shown with Globe No. 0838, opal top; clear bottom. An excellent globe for use wherever a very brilliant illumination is required.

Style : Classic

THE architecture of the ancient Greeks as exemplified in their temples and public buildings is no longer used in a pure form, but is, nevertheless, the real foundation for most modern architecture and much interior decoration. Its most obvious characteristic was the fluted column of three easily recognized orders: Doric, Ionic and Corinthian.

A Classic fixture showing the laurel wreath and egg-and-dart decorations; well balanced, and, because of its formal character of design, most harmonious with interiors which display a rather severe scheme of decoration. Its greatest field will be found in residence illumination, but it may also be used in stores.

Shown with Globe No. 0911, crystal, French roughed, decoration in green and garnet. The shape of this globe is especially harmonious with the shape of the shells and canopy of this fixture and the conventional decoration preserves the severity of effect.

Style : Mission

THE chief characteristics of the Mission architecture, adapted from the old Spanish Missions of the Pacific coast, are square supporting posts, rectangular edges and an appearance of rude strength. This mode is now popularly used in homes as well as in fine stores and offices.

Much of the furniture now sold is of the Mission type and it is therefore necessary to have fixtures to match. The design herewith shown is especially suitable for installations of this kind.

Style : Mission

AS these old Spanish Missions of the Pacific coast were built with the fewest possible facilities, they display a total disregard for mere embellishment. Their lines are straight and rude—the lines of strength and rough simplicity. It sometimes happens, however, that a slight lessening of severity is desirable, and then a Mission Reflexolier having round arms should be used.

Shown with Shade No. 6007, Bournique Art Glass. The rich, warm colors of art glass are especially valuable in residence and store illumination where decorative effect is more important than mere brilliancy of light.

V 415

Reflexolier

V 415

Style : Flemish

A SIMPLE fixture of graceful lines, suitable for residence illumination, in rooms where it is desirable to have handsome but unpretentious lighting equipment. The heavy, round ball and curved arms are fashioned after the solid, heavy Flemish type, and harmonize with interior decoration of informal character.

Shown with Globe No. 0834, crystal, heavy satin etched. While this globe is harmonious with the Reflexolier because of its shape, any ball-shaped globe may be used with equal appropriateness.

SPECIFICATIONS

Stem, 1 inch round	Drop, 24 inches
Arms, $\frac{1}{2}$ inch round	Spread, 19 inches
Center spinning, 6 inches diameter	Sliding canopy, $4\frac{1}{2}$ x $4\frac{1}{2}$ inches

Globe No. 0834, per dozen, $5.00

V 571

Reflexolier

V 571

Style : Flemish

IN this fixture the severity of effect is lessened by the urn-shaped body. It is applicable especially to store lighting, in common with the other straight-arm Reflexoliers herein shown, but in cases where it is desirable to use a more graceful fixture, this style will prove most acceptable.

Shown with Welsbach-Holophane Reflectors. Extensive, Intensive and Focusing types are obtainable.

SPECIFICATIONS

Stem, $\frac{7}{8}$ inch round

Drop, 24 inches

Arms, $\frac{1}{2}$ inch round

Spread, 20 inches

V 1297

Reflexolier

V 1297

Style : Flemish

IN this fixture the severe lines of the straight arms are neutralized by the graceful oval body, a spinning of exceptional attractiveness. Being extremely plain, yet very apparently of exceedingly fine workmanship, this Reflexolier will appear to advantage in parlors, reception-halls or dining-rooms. It may also be effectively used in stores.

Shown with Globe No. 0105, an imported globe ; crystal glass, double-etched, with hand-painted Art Nouveau design in iridescent green and purple.

SPECIFICATIONS

Stem, $\frac{7}{8}$ inch round

Drop, 24 inches

Arms, $\frac{7}{8}$ inch round

Spread, 24 inches

Sliding Canopy, 3 x 4 inches

V 478

Chandelier

V 478

Style : Gothic

THE basic features of the Gothic architecture, employed in most of the famous churches of Europe, were extreme simplicity of ornament and studiedly graceful curves. Although no pure Gothic architecture is adapted to the necessities of modern residences, it is possible to introduce some of its features into such accessories as lighting. The style of Chandelier shown will be found effective in parlor or library, and is most effective of all in a large, square hall.

Shown with Shade No. 0782, Amber-opal, or Green-opal Art Glass with brass-bound corners. The rich, subdued tones of this glass are especially pleasing and harmonize well with the more popular color schemes.

SPECIFICATIONS

Stem, $\frac{7}{8}$ inch round

Drop, 36 inches

Arms, $\frac{1}{2}$ inch round

Spread, $17\frac{1}{2}$ inches

Sliding Canopy, $3\frac{1}{2}$ x 5 inches

1033

Reflexolier

1033

Style : Modern

THIS Reflexolier differs from No. 1032 (see next page) in the diameter of the arm casing and in the fact that the pilot gas-ways from the body to the end of the arms are concealed in the arm casing. These improvements add much to both the appearance and serviceability of the Reflexolier, making it the best store fixture for the price.

Shown with Welsbach - Holophane Reflector. Extensive, Intensive and Focusing types are obtainable.

SPECIFICATIONS

Stem, $\frac{3}{4}$ inch round

Drop, 24 inches
